

DELIBERATION FACILITATOR TRAINING

a workshop on learning to host meaningful deliberations

The DCI is excited to host a deliberation facilitator training open to all Davidson students, faculty, and staff, as well as to members of the wider community. This 8-hour training, spread across 2 days, will equip participants with skills and knowledge to:

- Facilitate difficult discussions
- Organize and host deliberations
- Encourage deliberative dispositions and humane instincts
- Build community through productive discourse

Held in-person on the Davidson Campus with a virtual participation option, this free training qualifies participants to moderate DCI deliberations and difficult conversations in many other contexts.

Sign up today and join the growing community of individuals dedicated to building democracy, one conversation at a time.

*September 11 (part 1) and 17 (part 2), 1:30 - 5:30 pm
